

SWAIP – INTERDISCIPLINARY WORKSHOP FOR SOCIAL INCLUSION AND WELLBEING

The SWAIP project is an Erasmus+ funded project that stands for Social inclusion and Well-being through the Arts and Interdisciplinary Practices. The main aim is to develop curricula for a study programme which will train artists and pedagogists to work with social inclusion and well-being in their projects. The goal is to introduce them to art's abilities to make connections, facilitate well-being, empowerment and strengthen self-confidence. Emphasis will be on training flexible and sensitive artists and pedagogists capable of relating to advanced ideas and finding new roles in the constant changing society.

The project is a collaboration between Iceland University of the Arts, University of Porto, University of Alicante, University of Hertfordshire, Academy of Fine Arts in Munich, Metropolia University of Applied Sciences in Helsinki, and AEC (The Association Européenne des Conservatoires, Académies de Musique et Musikhochschulen).

STUDENT WORKING GROUP BRIEF

SWAIP offers you a unique opportunity to be a member of an interdisciplinary group of students and staff at the Iceland University of the Arts, Reykjavik, Iceland. The workshop focuses on how the arts can support and enhance the wellbeing of vulnerable teenagers at risk of dropping out of school. The workshop will be held in collaboration with Borgarholtsskóli, an upper-secondary school in Reykjavik, which emphasises supporting young people at risk. You will be assigned to an interdisciplinary student working group.

Each student working group, supported by SWAIP staff, will design, prepare and run an interdisciplinary workshop for the wellbeing of the 16-20 year old teenagers.

TIMETABLE

Monday 10th & Tuesday 11th
